Subject: [BPAC] City transportation engineering 2010 work plan

Hi all,

At the last BPAC meeting, you asked me to email out our work plan for 2010.
It is attached.

Three notes about it...

One, it's not official. It hasn't been approved by the Board of Public Works or any policy makers. It's just something I put together to help me frame my year.

Second, it is probably much more than we can accomplish in one year with two people.

Third, it is not reflective of many other projects that are led by other engineers in the office or by other departments or by other agencies in the area. It's trying to reflect the work of the City's two transportation engineers.

The other thing you asked about was the Columbia Street Pedestrian Bridge.
Plans are available in the office if you'd like to come in and see them.
Also, either Kent or I will bring them to the next BPAC meeting. It does look like the project will go out to bid in March.

See you soon,
Tim
